

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT 1971-1972

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE, ANNVILLE, PENNSYLVANIA

INTRODUCTION

Hardly any year could have been filled with more challenges, responsibilities, and plain hard work than was 1971-1972 at Lebanon Valley College. The reaffirmation of our accreditation by both the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the National Association of Schools of Music was one of the highlights of the year. What seemed like endless committee meetings were required of the faculty and administration to prepare for and to host the evaluation team from the Middle States Association.

Launching and operating a capital campaign of the magnitude of our Fund for Fulfillment added another extra and unusual work load to our staff. The initial success of this program was gratifying and encouraging.

Despite many problems associated with the initial year of a new building, it was immediately evident that campus life was improved greatly by the operation of our new College Center. Also during the year, the new dormitory for women was under construction, and the new music building was on the drawing boards.

Since the provision of a sound and exciting academic experience is our central purpose, we may be proud of the unusual amount of activity in 1971-1972 as the added work and achievement are reviewed.

THE STUDENTS

In accordance with our desire and intention to keep the enrollment of Lebanon Valley College in a thirteen to one ratio with the faculty and to keep the enrollment sufficiently low for our claiming the unequaled advantages of a small institution, the 1971-1972 year began with 973 full-time students. This number was reduced to 943 at the beginning of the second semester.

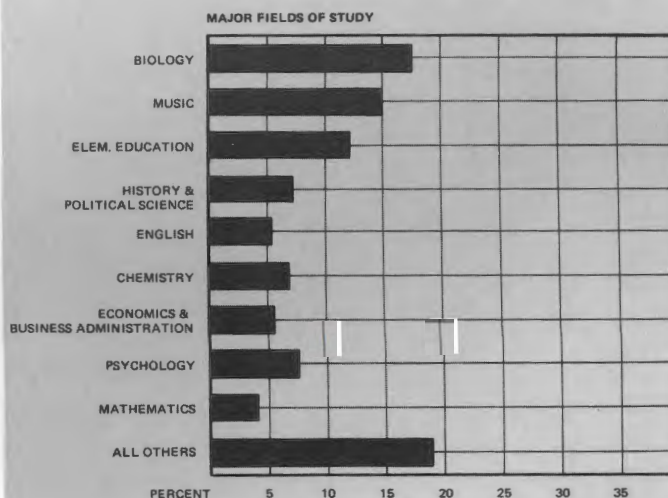

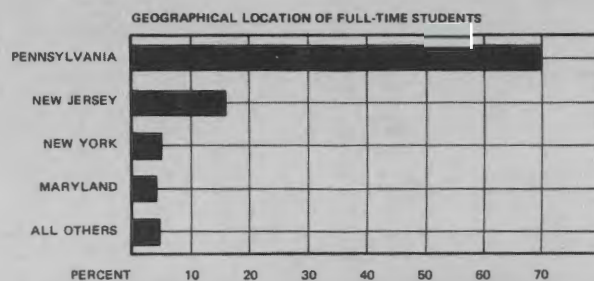

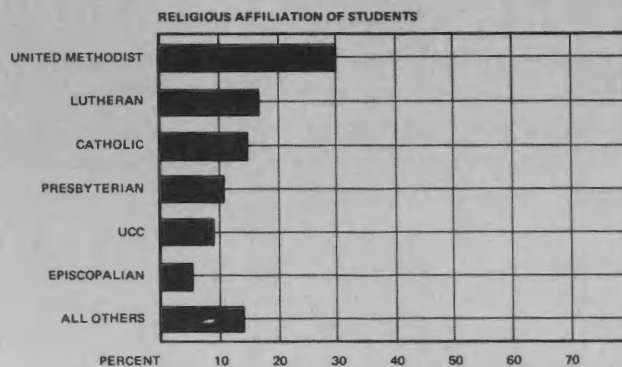

There were 538 men and 435 women this year—683 from Pennsylvania, 285 from other states, and five from other countries. Also, 798, or approximately 82% of the full-time students lived in the campus dormitories. This proportion of resident students represented a new high for the college.

Although most of the major fields of study showed little change in the percentage of students committed to them, there was a noticeable increase in students majoring in biology, psychology, and religion. An increased percentage of students graduated with the bachelor of science degree and a decreased percentage with the bachelor of arts degree.

There was also a noticeable increase in the number of students who participated in extracurricular activities. More students took part in the athletic, dramatic, musical, religious, and fraternal activities of the campus.

The religious affiliation of the students changed very little from the previous year. There was a decrease in those claiming no affiliation.

The students continued to request change. Changes in the social life and the program have been and continue to be tried. It is indeed necessary that we work together for the accomplishment of sound progress, but also that we avoid making changes simply for the sake of change. The many successes of students and student activities indicated, time after time, the strong spirit of cooperation which exists on our campus.

THE FACULTY

The faculty numbered seventy full-time and sixteen part-time members for the 1971-72 academic year. Mrs. Agnes O'Donnell and Dr. Karl Lockwood were on sabbatical leave for the year to the University of Pennsylvania and to the University of Colorado respectively.

New members of the full-time faculty were Dr. David Bailey, assistant professor of chemistry; Dr. Donald Byrne, assistant professor of religion; Mrs. Virginia Englebright, assistant professor of voice; Dr. David Gring, assistant professor of biology; Dr. Bryan Hearsey, assistant professor of mathematics; Dr. John Kearney, assistant professor of English; Dr. Thomas Lee, assistant professor of economics; Dr. Leon Markowicz, assistant professor of English; Dr. John Martin, assistant professor of French; John Norton, instructor in political science; O. Kent Reed, assistant professor of physical education; Edward Rice, assistant professor of business administration; and Louis Sorrentino, assistant professor of physical education. Dr. Jonathan Griffiths and John C. D. Field served as sabbatical replacements for Dr. Lockwood and Mrs. O'Donnell.

The full-time faculty members who concluded services at the end of the year were D. Roger Gaeckler, instructor in physical education; Frances V. Jamanis, instructor in piano; Michael Jamanis, assistant professor of piano; Werner Peterke, assistant professor of economics; Edward Rice, assistant professor of business administration; Mrs. Charlotte Stare, assistant professor of psychology; Dayle Stare, assistant professor of mathematics; and Edward White, assistant professor of sociology.

As was indicated in the introduction of this report, the faculty undertook many additional responsibilities during the year without decreasing the effectiveness of their prime responsibility. It is impossible to express adequately my gratitude and appreciation for the faculty's untiring efforts to keep Lebanon Valley College a significant force in our nation's system of higher education.

CURRICULUM & PROGRAM

Although few changes were made in curriculum and program, our preparation for the Middle States evaluation gave us an opportunity for much projection into the future. The visiting team encouraged us to explore more deeply and to follow through on our own recommendations for improvement. The 1972-1973 year will be the beginning of intensive discussions on some suggestions for major change in the structure of our academic program.

Practically all of what President Paul Reinert of St. Louis University has to say about independent colleges and universities in his excellent little book, To Turn the Tide, is relevant to Lebanon Valley College. However, part of his summarizing statement is especially appropriate:

Each of our independent colleges and universities must decide what its essential mission is and then pursue it. In this way we will again exert influence over our own destiny, irrespective of economic constraints. We cannot drift. We must break down calcified habits and eliminate those programs and functions that continue on sheer bureaucratic momentum. Our pruning must be deft, if not merciless, as we reshape for tomorrow—or tomorrow will not come.

We must welcome change, yet never should change on our campuses be a matter of panicky swings of direction, a welter of confused responses to demands and criticism. Rather, change must be a carefully-thought-through development adopted with regard for continuity as well. Moreover, we need not seek to change dramatically or even greatly overnight. For often major change comes about through a succession of small needs and conditions of our society, that we be receptive to proposals for change within our institutions, and that we encourage new ways of doing things. But never should we allow ourselves to adopt the new, or to embrace the innovative without having required that it suit the goals that we have set.

THE LIBRARY

In accordance with previous discussions and plans, the librarians began the major task of reclassifying our collection from the Dewey Decimal System to the Library of Congress system. This change will probably take more than four years, but it is anticipated that new economies, conveniences, and savings of time will make the immense effort worthwhile.

In response to requests from students the hours were increased so that the library was open in excess of ninety hours per week. Increased hours, demands for more rapid processing of new materials, and changing the system of classification provided full schedules for everyone associated with the library.

The library became the home of the second computer terminal on campus. The first terminal had been installed in the science building during the previous year. Lebanon Valley College continued to be one of several institutions which cooperate to provide academic instruction in the use of the computer. The terminals are linked to the central computer in Lancaster.

THE ADMINISTRATIVE STAFF

After having been associated with Lebanon Valley College since 1933, D. Clark Carmean announced his coming retirement. Mr. Carmean concluded his services as director of admissions at the end of June, but he will remain full-time with the office of admissions until the end of December. After December he will remain associated with our office of admissions on a part-time schedule.

Few people in the history of LVC have given their lives so fully to the development and improvement of this college as Clark Carmean. We are all indebted to him.

Soon after the conclusion of the 1971-1972 year, everyone associated with Lebanon Valley was shocked and saddened by the sudden death of Miss Martha C. Faust, dean of women. Dean Faust graduated from LVC in 1937 and had served as dean of women since 1957. Her many contributions to the life of the college will live long into the future.

The year began with Paul Pickard as the new director of public relations, and the year ended with the announcement that Gregory Stanson, assistant to the director of admissions, would succeed Mr. Carmean as director of admissions. These young men have been valuable members of the administrative team, and their record of productivity continues my confidence in our keeping the administrative staff limited in size.

ADMISSIONS

During the year the number of young men and women who showed an interest in coming to Lebanon Valley remained comfortably high. The size of the college, the academic program, and the strength of the faculty continued to be attractive to well-qualified students.

Although this attraction remained strong, the necessity of our meeting the financial needs of more and more students continued to increase. Too many interested young people could not choose LVC because of their inability to meet the costs. No persons knew better than those in admissions that the gap between costs at public colleges and at Lebanon Valley College was increasing.

Preparations were made for approximately 330 new students to enter in September, 1972. Again this new group promised to benefit from and contribute to life at the Valley.

PHYSICAL IMPROVEMENTS

In its first year of use the College Center quickly provided a new dimension to campus life. Although its maiden voyage was not perfectly smooth, everyone recognized the great improvement and potential which came to campus activities. The students finally gained a coordinated social center.

During the year the new dormitory for women was completed on the northeast corner of campus immediately south of Funkhouser Hall. The completion of this building paved the way for some moving in the summer and additional changes in the future. The summer moves included the return of Keister Hall to men, discontinuing Kreider Hall as a dormitory for men, and the transfer of the music department from Engle Hall to Kreider Hall and to the former Lutheran and E. C. Churches on North White Oak Street.

Plans for the construction of the new music building on the site of Engle Hall proceeded according to schedule. This construction will begin in the fall of 1972.

The Wagner House, formerly owned by the late Dr. Paul S. Wagner, was purchased and furnished as a faculty lounge and a guest house. This building and the College Center were dedicated during the spring Alumni Day.

ALUMNI ACTIVITIES

The Lebanon Valley College Alumni Association continued its many outstanding activities and, in addition, gave full support and cooperation to the Fund for Fulfillment. During the Fund for Fulfillment dinner in February, which was attended by more than 950 persons, President Harry Bricker conferred honorary membership upon the special guest of the evening, Art Linkletter. Mr. Linkletter thus became the first honorary member of the Alumni Association.

The association's representatives on the college Board of Trustees continued to number five. Mr. DeWitt Essick concluded twelve years as an outstanding member of the board, and Mr. Alfred Blessing was newly elected in his place.

The association's gavel of leadership passed from Harry Bricker to Thomas Reinhart during the Alumni Day luncheon. These two men have given a full measure of leadership for which everyone is grateful, and we expect the term of Thomas Reinhart to continue to provide strong and purposeful direction for the association.

FUND FOR FULFILLMENT

The Lebanon Valley College Fund for Fulfillment began and it continues. It had a great beginning, and the momentum must go on.

As a brief review, the Fund for Fulfillment is in addition to the Annual Giving Program which supports the general operation of the college. The Fund for Fulfillment is designed to pay for the College Center, to construct the new music building, and to increase the endowment: all within three years. In addition, the Fund for Fulfillment is designed to plan and build a new science building, to provide for a campus entrance, to bridge the railroad, and to reduce indebtedness, all as soon after the first three-year period as possible. The initial year of the Fund for Fulfillment was extremely gratifying. The commitments exceeded $1,900,000.

As we participate in the Fund for Fulfillment, it is necessary that we do not neglect the Annual Giving Program. Our daily educational efforts must not suffer as we construct buildings.

THE PAST AND THE FUTURE

Although the past year was an extremely busy one, it was a very gratifying one. The help which was given by so many cannot be measured.

The year closed with thirteen trustees concluding a combined 168 years of service. Thanks to Jefferson Barnhart, Dr. William Bryson, Paul Ehrhart, DeWitt Essick, Dr. Paul Gruver, Bishop J. Gordon Howard, Bishop H. W. Kaebnick, Dr. Lester Kauffman, Dr. Clair Kreidler, Dr. Jacob Rhodes, Jack Seltzer, Rev. Paul Slonaker, and Dr. Samuel Wengert for unselfish leadership to LVC. We welcome Alfred Blessing, Eugene Fish, Dr. Henry Nichols, Kenneth Plummer, Herbert Richman, Dr. Perry Troutman, Harlan Wengert, and Richard A. Zimmerman as new members to the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Malcolm Meyer completed his first year as president of the Board of Trustees. His leadership and guidance moves us into the future.

May the assistance and kindness of the Board of Trustees, the faculty and administration, the students and alumni, the staff and friends, and the Central and Eastern Pennsylvania Conferences of the United Methodist Church all be rewarded by a stronger and healthier Lebanon Valley College.

With this report I recognize the passing to their eternal rewards of Miss Martha C. Faust, dean of women, Miss Helen Ethel Myers, librarian emeritus, and Dr. Lena L. Lietzau, professor emeritus of German.

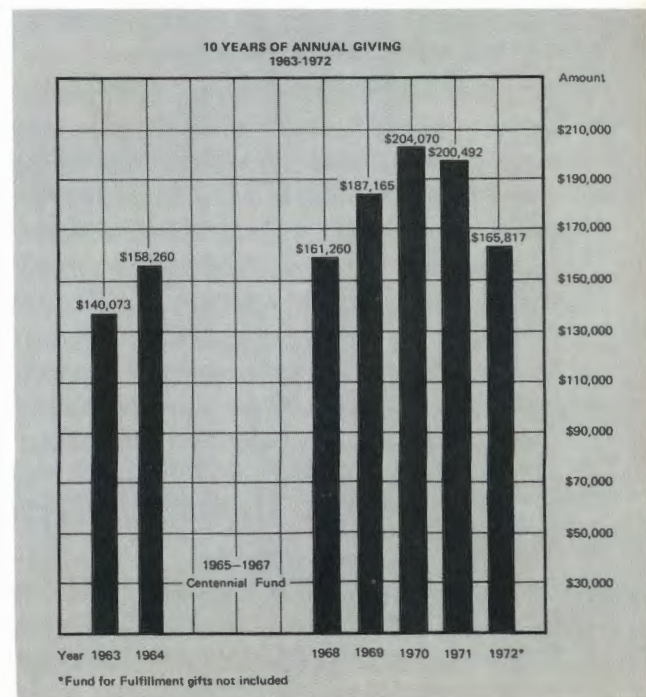

COMMITMENT THROUGH GIVING

The past year was an unprecedented one at Lebanon Valley. For the first time in the history of the college, Annual Giving ran concurrent with a major capital funds campaign — the Fund for Fulfillment. The results have been most gratifying. An all-time record for one fiscal year was established when combined gifts to both campaigns totaled $2,197,213.

The Board of Trustees, the Faculty, and the Administration join in expressing their most sincere appreciation to the contributors who are listed on these pages. A special thanks is extended to all who responded to both Annual Giving and the Fund for Fulfillment. Such fine support enabled the college to plan solidly for the future while at the same time maintaining and improving the quality of the present educational program. Alumni and friends who were not afforded an opportunity to participate in the Fund for Fulfillment in 1972, will have that opportunity this coming year.

In attempting to give proper credit for gifts to both Annual Giving and the Fund for Fulfillment, we have endeavored to be extra careful in compiling this report. However, should any names be left out, we hope you will understand and inform us of our error.

CHURCH PARTICIPATION

We are pleased to announce that during 1971-72, $54,586.00 was received from the Eastern Pennsylvania and the Central Pennsylvania Conferences of the United Methodist Church, a new record of support for these Conferences. In addition, this was the first year that the college was included in the budgets of both conferences — an act giving bright promise of new and broadened ties with our friends of the United Methodist Church.

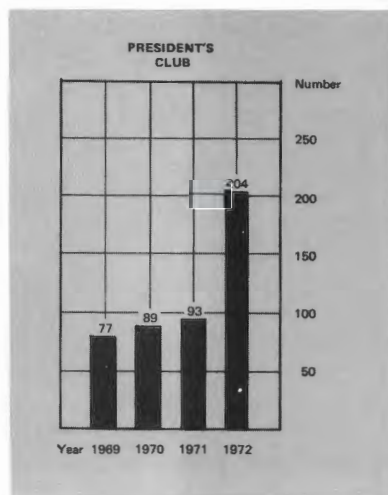

The college is deeply appreciative of this giving and is thankful for the supporting leadership of the bishops, district superintendents, pastors, and laymen. Their active interest in Christian higher education has made possible this fine report. It is our belief that this concern for higher education, in a Christian setting, will continue to grow.

THE PRESIDENT'S CLUB

The President's Club of Lebanon Valley College recognizes the alumni and friends who contributed a minimum of $500.00 to Annual Giving and/or the Fund for Fulfillment during the fiscal year.

Because the initial phase of the Fund for Fulfillment extends over a period of three years, membership in the President's Club and Century Club will continue until gifts have been fully recognized.

THE CENTURY CLUB

The Century Club of Lebanon Valley College consists of those alumni and friends whose contributions to Annual Giving, the Fund for Fulfillment, or both total at least $100.00. The club has enjoyed membership increases in each year of its existence since 1961 when 137 contributors were enrolled. In 1972, a record breaking membership of 955 individuals was attained. Combined with the President's Club membership of 204, the 1159 total is outstanding evidence of loyalty and concern for Lebanon Valley College.

The individuals and industries listed below are granted membership in the Century Club and, along with the President's Club members will be the guests of the college at the Annual Century Club Dinner on October 27, 1972.

MEMORIAL GIFTS

Perhaps one of the most personally rewarding gifts that a contributor may make to Lebanon Valley College is one which honors a dearly loved family member or friend. These gifts serve constantly to recall the lives and characters of those in whose memory they were made. The college is pleased to receive such gifts and accordingly is proud to recognize them in a suitable manner. Because of the Fund for Fulfillment an opportunity for gifts of this type now exists in the College Center and the new music building. Available memorial gift opportunities range from the naming of buildings themselves to the provision of a particular suite, room or piece of equipment.

During the 1971-72 fiscal year, gifts were received in memory of:

In Memoriam

Dr. Paul S. Wagner - 1917
Dr. Earnest D. Williams - 1917
Dr. Francis H. Wilson

MATCHING GIFTS

The Matching Gift Program has been adopted by many businesses and industries throughout the United States. An increasing number of alumni and friends are utilizing it to augment their own support of Lebanon Valley College. Essentially the program provides that participating employers will match with equivalent amounts gifts made by their employees. In many instances, gifts made by non-employee spouses may also be matched.

Last year 59 firms made matching gifts to the college totaling $8,830. We are most appreciative for this support of the donor and the employer.

Contributors who would like information concerning the Matching Gift Program should feel free to contact the director of development. He will be glad to provide a listing of participating industries.

EVER CONSIDER A DEFERRED GIFT ?

An increased number of alumni and friends are making use of deferred giving techniques. Annuities, life income agreements, charitable remainder trusts, and unitrusts provide a guaranteed income to the donor. In some instances they provide a hedge against inflation and all allow some relief from taxes. Deferred gifts afford the donor an opportunity to make a large contribution to the college during his lifetime. In addition, they have the added feature of allowing the contributor to see his gift dollars at work.

It should be added that bequests play an important role in permitting the college to plan for future expansion. It is hoped that all alumni and friends will remember Lebanon Valley College's pressing financial needs in their wills — a final act demonstrating loyalty and appreciation.

The director of development will be pleased to provide information and assistance in conjunction with legal counsel for donors contemplating gifts of this type.

In 1971-72 Bequests and Deferred Gifts were received from:
